Digital solutions for water: Addressing industry needs and commercializing opportunities

As municipalities and stakeholders in the water sector face increasing challenges in sustainability, operational efficiency, and policy integration, digital solutions are emerging as game-changers, providing new ways to overcome these obstacles. This engaging one-hour session will discuss the water industry's needs in this digital-driven world and opportunities for commercializing these digital solutions. We'll also showcase WATERLINE's VR educational products and discuss bridging the gap between research and practice to accelerate the adoption of innovative solutions and shape policies for a more sustainable and resilient water sector in Norway and Europe.

Don't miss this chance to be part of this key conversation to shape the future of the water sector! This webinar will feed NMBU's input for the WATERLINE project (<https://www.waterline-project.eu/>). This Horizon Europe project is dedicated to establishing a European Digital Water HEI Alliance, built on the quadruple helix model of innovation, fostering collaboration between academia, industry, policymakers, and society.
